ENERGY IN ARCHITECTURE/ LEVEL 3a PROCESS

This two-day, 14-hour workshop leads the design professionals through the application of energy knowledge and techniques in the design process. Lectures, application sessions and sample design problems are presented in programming, schematic design, design development and energy-economic analysis, building logically one upon the other. Region-specific examples are used to demonstrate the multitude of opportunities for energy-efficiency design.

Speakers for the Kalamazoo Convention Workshop on October 14-15, 1981 are Dennis Holloway and Michael Levy, AIA. Holloway pioneered design and construction of solar buildings. His public service to the solar energy movement was honored in 1976 by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency which presented him its Environmental Quality Award in Science and Technology.

During 1968, Holloway won a State Department Fullbright Scholarship to study Housing Design and System Building in the United Kingdom and the Netherlands. Upon his return to the United States he designed large housing projects in New York City and planned for expansion of Lower Manhattan Island. From 1970-77 Holloway was an Associate Professor of Architecture at the University of Minnesota where he directed "Project Ourobors," Minnesota's first solar house designed and constructed by 450 of his students over a three-year period.

From 1977-80 he was an Associate Professor of Environmental Design at the University of Colorado, Boulder. Holloway devotes his private architectural practice entirely to design projects utilizing solar energy and energy conservation principles. A native of Michigan, he earned his B. Arch. degree from U of M and his Masters of Architecture from Harvard, School of Design.

Michael Levy, AIA, of Ft. Wayne, Indiana, is the principle of Michael T. Levy Associates which specializes in solar architecture, recycling buildings and environmental design. He is also President of Sun Builders, Inc., designers and builders of solar and earth sheltered projects. Levy received his B. Arch. from U of Michigan.

Levy conducts national solar energy seminars sponsored by Jordon College of Michigan. He has taught at Purdue University in Ft. Wayne and was a presenter at the National Passive Solar Conference and the University of Minnesota Earth Shelter Housing Conference.

Levy, who has been involved in solar architecture, education and industrial design since 1976, with architects for the McCormick Piano and Organ Company Building, one of the most cost effective solar applications in the country.

He also designed the earthaven series of passive solar earth sheltered residences.

Call MSA for reservations at $295/person or use your AIA Energy Brochure and/or the MSA Convention Registration Form to register for this two-day workshop.

WAL/SCHOLARSHIP FUND RAISER

The Women's Architectural League of Metropolitan Detroit will hold its annual fund raiser at Meadowbrook Country Club, 8 Mile Road west of Haggerty Road in Northville on Wednesday, November 4. The public is invited to attend.

Titled "An Interlude at Meadowbrook Country Club," the event will begin at 10:30 a.m. with a pre-holiday handcraft boutique. A luncheon will be served at noon, to be followed with entertainment by concert pianists playing in duet to the accompaniment of a slide presentation on Art and Architecture.

Tickets are $12.00. Proceeds of the event will be used to maintain the Scholarship Fund for 4th and 5th year architectural students. For scholarship information contact: Pam LaGrassa at (313) 541-4815. The scholarship program is open to architectural and landscape architectural students.

For reservations and information, please call chairperson Maxine Stempien at 646-4360.

REGISTRATION FEES

To the best of our knowledge at this time the new fees for renewal of architectural registration in Michigan have been raised from $25.00 per year to $50.00 pear year.

The new billings are for two years and the invoice will show an amount due of $100.00.

If we receive additional information on this matter we will publish it promptly.

ARTS AND RECREATION COMMITTEE

The American Institute of Architects Committee on Architecture for the Arts and Recreation Committee invites all AIA members and architectural students to its meeting in Detroit on October 22 and 23 at the Detroit Plaza Hotel in the Renaissance Center.

On Thursday, October 22, at 9:00 a.m., David Geiger, P.E., of Geiger/Berger, New York, will speak on new developments in air supported roof structures, followed by a discussion with Carl Luckenbach, FAIA, about the planning of the Pontiac Silverdome. Participants will be bussed to the Silverdome for lunch followed by a tour of the building.

On Friday, October 23, at 1:00 p.m., Smith, Hinchman & Grylls will discuss the planning of the Joe Louis Arena followed by a visit to the building.

There is a nominal meeting fee. You may attend part or all of the committee meetings. For information call Professional Interest Programs, Richard VanOsKeuls at the AIA, 1735 New York Ave., NW., Washington, D.C. Telephone: (202) 626-7429.

TEST GUIDE

The 1981 NCARB Professional Examination Handbook is now available from the MSA Bookstore.

The 1981 NCARB Professional Examination subject is a museum located in a Midwestern state. The Handbook details the exam as well as reviewing the 1980 exam. The cost of the Handbook is $27.00 plus tax and delivery. Call (313) 965-4100 for your copy today.

A special orientation session will be held at the MSA Convention on Wednesday, October 14 conducted by Lester Wertheimer, AIA, Director of the California based Architectural License Seminars, Inc. The fee for this session is $25.00. Call MSA for more information.

TELEGRAM

Amedeo Leone, FAIA, 4294 Buena Vista, Detroit, MI 48238. On behalf of the Board of Directors of the AIA, let me offer my sincere congratulations to you, Al, on your 90th birthday. That's an achievement we would all like to share.

I'm proud to send you our best wishes for many happy returns.

Sincerely, David O. Meeker, FAIA, Executive Vice President, AIA.

LETTERS

Dear Mr. Meeker:

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the Board of Directors for their remembrance of my extended stay on the right side of the earth.

Fortunately, I am, as of this writing enjoying a fairly active life physically and mentally for which I am very grateful.

Even though I have been retired from active practice for a considerable period, Architecture is still my first love, and thanks to the AIA Journal, a valuable and handsome magazine, I manage to keep abreast of the changes occurring in the architectural profession due to the social, technical and economic upheaval the world is going through.

Life can be interesting in the ninetieth period.

Sincerely,
Amedo Leone, FAIA,
Detroit Chapter Member

ARCHITECTS CELEBRATE STATEWIDE

On Sunday, October 11, Governor Milliken has declared the opening of Architects Week for 1982. To commemorate this event the nine AIA Chapters in Michigan are planning a simultaneous "Architects Sunday." These open house programs will be held by the AIA in cooperation with the building owners as a public service.

A building or project in each of the chapter areas will be identified as the subject of Architects Sunday, and visiting hours at no charge will be held. These programs include guided tours of the building and by the architects and their staff, and printed programs describing the special features of each building.

Chapters are encouraged to make "Architects Sunday" a regular event on a monthly basis if possible. It is a good method to show-case a project at very low cost.

The Statewide Architects Sunday will be the leading event for the 66th Annual MSA Convention taking place in Kalamazoo at the Hilton Inn, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 14-16, 1981.

Program and registration forms are elsewhere in this issue of the Monthly Bulletin.

PROCLAMATION

ARCHITECTS WEEK

WHEREAS, As all of Michigan observes Architects Week, October 11-17, 1981, it is indeed appropriate that we honor the Michigan Society of Architects in recognition of its role in making architecture a discipline in harmony with the values of humanity; and

WHEREAS, The theme of the 66th Annual Michigan Society of Architects' convention "Creativity" becomes the challenge for the architect and those associated with the architectural profession; and

WHEREAS, The Michigan Society of Architects is the professional body which unifies the efforts of all the architects of the state in encouraging training, research and improvement of services to the public and to the state and local governments.

THEREFORE, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan do hereby proclaim October 11-17, 1981 as in Michigan, and call upon all citizens to give thought to the role and contribution of architects in Michigan.

WE'RE AVAILABLE

ADULT ED/LIT

The LIT School of Architecture is sponsoring a weekend Design Discovery Program designed to give adults a chance to take classes in the fields of architecture, interior architecture/design, or fine arts. The first 16-week program began September 26th. Offered during this fall term will be the architecture and fine arts programs. Interior architecture/design will be offered in addition to the other two programs in the spring term which begins February 6th. Both fall and spring sessions will meet on Saturdays only.

A wide range of lectures and museum and gallery visits, as well as a field trip to the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed "Affleck House" are planned for the participants. Classes will be taught by the LIT architecture faculty.

Participants can elect to take one, two, or all three of the courses in each program. "Basic Design" and an "Art and Architecture Seminar" will be offered in all three programs. Students may also choose a course designed specifically for their area of interest, either "Visual Communications" in architecture, "Drawing and Composition" in fine arts, or "Interior Architecture/Interior Design."

The tuition for each of the four studio classes is $90. The cost of the art and architecture seminar is $30.00. Cost of supplies for the three programs will be approximately $100.00.

The program is open to all adults who have not been previously accepted to the LIT School of Architecture and who previously have not been taking architecture courses at the College.

Candidates seeking credit toward a degree must make application to the College and be successfully admitted to the particular program. College credit toward the bachelor of science degree in architecture will be awarded upon successful completion of the courses with a grade of "C" or better.

For further information on the program or admission to any of the classes, call the LIT Office of Admissions at (313) 356-0200.
